CHAPTER #165

The chapter would like to thank Master Sergeant Dave the Reconnaissance Team Leader for the Counterdrug Task Force TRI: NET Narcotic Task Force for his presentation in July.

Chairman's Corner

I hope everyone had a safe Hot August Nights week! Towards the end of summer each year, ASIS releases several announcements and this year is no different. I received an email from the Awards Committee Chairman for ASIS International last week, with an exciting opportunity for our Chapter. He extended an invite for a member of our Chapter to be present in the ASIS International HQ booth at the 2013 Seminars and Exhibits in Chicago. This invitation gives this member an opportunity to discuss our Chapter and our award winning newsletter with those seeking to replicate our success. I encourage all members who are expecting to be at the annual seminar to take advantage of this opportunity as it will spread the word of what we are doing in Northern Nevada.

Chapter #164 Meeting minutes 7/3/2013

Chairman Puccioni started the meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance. Introductions were done by all members in attendance.

Secretary report for June 2013 was moved by Chris Brockway and seconded by Ron Jones and Treasurers report for June 2013 was moved by Dean Hill and seconded by Bob Nichols and were approved by the membership

Chairman Puccioni discussed last month's Security Officer of the Year award program stating that it was well received and next year will even be better.

Al Zajic and Darrell Clifton discussed the Active Shooter Seminar they attended and want to bring it to Northern Nevada. Discussion was held by the membership and Chris Brockway made a motion to have the training on Oct. 2, 2013 and it was seconded by Dean Hill, motion passed.

Brian Markowski suggested a way for the Chapter to increase attendance, one being a coupon for a two for one lunch for our September meeting. The idea was discussed and a motion was made by Brian Markowski and seconded by Dean Hill, motion passed.

Motion by Al Zajic and second by Jay Martin to have Mark Crosby take over the Foundation Chair. Motion passed.

Chairman Puccioni introduced the guest speaker M.Sgt. David McNeely from NVCATF (GRT-rattler). Mr. McNeely gave a brief overview of his career and his current assignment with Tri-net. He showed several videos relating to marijuana grows in our area and explained numerous indicators that we should look for. He said if one indicator is observed you should get out. He also showed the members several materials used by growers to enable the growing process and the aftermath (trash) left by them. He showed how the growers are ruining the habitat in the area near the grow site.

Chairman Puccioni conducted the raffle and closed the meeting. The next meeting will be September 4th, 2013.

Update to ASIS Certification CPE Policy

Effective Jan. 1, 2015, CPPs, PCIs, and PSPs are now required to earn 60 CPEs every three years. In addition, PCIs and PSPs can now earn CPE credit for volunteer and management activities.

The latest in the ASIS Foundation's Connecting Research in Security to Practice (CRISP) report series, Situational Crime Prevention and Supply Chain Security, authored by Harald Haelterman, PhD, provides a reference guide on how best to approach the introduction of situational crime prevention program in a business environment.

The report focuses on situational crime prevention in domestic and international supply chains and presents a consecutive six-stage approach, emphasizing the importance of addressing challenges early in the process and focusing on the selection of alternative measures to mitigate identified and acknowledged risks.

This is the tenth report in the CRISP Report series.

Overview

This is an informative full day interactive program designed to introduce men and women to the new professional career field of personal protection. Presentations will review philosophy, doctrine, methodology, mechanics, guidelines, movements, dimensions, and checklists for the protection of executives, officials, celebrities, politicians, religious and world leaders. It is an opportunity to be involved in the presentations and participate in a training exercise as an example of what this career is really about.

Course Content

Who Is Qualified?

Where Is The Work?

When To Start?

What Assignments Can I Expect?

Why Consider This Career?

How Much Money Can I Earn?

Topics Covered Include:

- Advance Work
- Preventive Strategies
- Threat Assessment
- Choreography
- Risk Management
- Countermeasures
- Protective Measures
- Traits Required
- Responsibilities
- Operations

This program is for those who are curious or have an interest in the field of providing personal protection. For individuals involved in other security careers, law enforcement, military, business, law, teaching, computers, sales, service industry and students; those who are considering another career or planning their retirement job. An opportunity to learn the difference between "bodyguard" work and professional personal protection from those who wrote the classic textbooks (Providing Executive Protection & Providing Executive Protection Vol. II) on the subject and have operated the Executive Protection Institute since 1978.

The Executive Protection Institute is the first school to consider Personal Protection as a new professional career and continues to teach worldwide.

What our students say about EPI:

First of all...THANK YOU EPI staff for sharing your skills and adding to my tool box. Class 66 was a tight group which learned from each other. To all NLA members at any point you need assistance, or just because, please make contact asap. Be safe and watch your SIX.

Sgt. Christopher Fugate,
US Federal Reserve Bank

Just wanted to send out a note of thanks to all of the class 66 members, as well as ALL of the great instructors that took this wide variety of experience and molded us all together as one group. Through great leadership comes great knowledge. Thanks to all! If anyone is ever in need of anything in the Central Ohio area feel free to contact me.

Richard "Big Rick" Anglin

The EPI staff was high energy and ensured I had all the materials necessary to take full advantage of the training. I never felt rushed or pushed to meet a deadline, the instructors took whatever time was needed individually for each student. Talking through the various concepts or demonstrating a new technique, range safety was paramount and all students regardless of skill level benefited from the training.

At this moment, hundreds of military and government leaders, business and religious executives, families and celebrities are being personally protected by graduates of the Executive Protection Institute.

EPI has set the standard for personal protection in today's world. Our students, under the guidance of a most distinguished faculty in the world of personal security, have completed the intensive training and methods innovated by the pioneer of modern personal protection, Dr. Richard Kobetz.

After a celebrated career in law enforcement, including assignment by the International Association of Chiefs of Police to develop and conduct training programs for the protection of public figures, SWAT operations, and counter-terrorism programs, Dr. Kobetz founded EPI in 1978.

Dr. Kobetz turned personal protection into a credentialed, respected profession.

Dr. Kobetz's vision, zeal, and in-depth experience inaugurated a new era of personal security that elevated the one-dimensional role of bodyguards to that of personal security specialists capable of responding physically and intellectually to the new security demands of the modern world.

He created a professional credential for the job — Personal Protection Specialist (PPS) — that was adopted by the State of Virginia, which now requires a PPS certificate for personal protection employment. EPI graduates receive immediate recognition in the security field for having distinguished themselves by receiving this invaluable credential upon graduation.

Hands-on teaching by highly experienced specialists in every area of personal security.

The instructors at EPI are recognized as highly qualified subject matter experts in many fields. They include those with major Hollywood "A" list actor celebrity experience, those with the protection of public officials such as heads of state, governors, religious leaders, diplomats and dignitaries, and those experienced with the executive protection of business men and woman and private high net worth families. Their backgrounds include Federal and State Law Enforcement including US State Department, State Police, as well as corporate and private security experience.

Students who successfully complete the 7-Day Program receive EPI's Personal Protection Specialist (PPS) certification.

We look for strongly motivated men and women who wish to learn and expand their often already impressive knowledge.

The world renowned 7-Day "Providing Executive Protection," is our premiere course.

This is the most selective course in modern personal protection worldwide.

Our most intensive program includes an appropriate blend of presentations and hands-on practical exercises. Starting with the basics, and quickly progressing into more sophisticated course work, EPI provides the tools for you to properly address any protective mission. Today, many employment opportunities require completion of this EPI course.

This is a tough course for serious students.

It encompasses seven days, 100 hours or more of intensive training. It consolidates three weeks of instruction into one week of reality-based situations. EPI concentrates its study on the real-world requirements of Executive Protection. Upon graduation you will receive a valuable PPS certificate and you have the opportunity to be voted into the Nine Lives Association.

The Nine Lives Association provides networking and business opportunities

As a graduate of our Providing Executive Protection Course, you'll become a certified Personal Protection Specialist and have the opportunity to become a member of the Nine Lives Associates (NLA). This is EPI's exclusive alumni association, made up of a select group of law enforcement, military, security and other professionals.

EPI has set up an active on-line NLA members-only message board that provides networking opportunities, job postings, newsletters, and conducts continuing education programs for advancement.

Other EPI Programs:

Protectors Pistol Courses

Basic and advanced handgun program for public or private personal protectors. For concealed carry and handgun use. Exceeds Virginia state requirements.

5-Day Providing Dignitary/VIP Protection for Law Enforcement Officers

For experienced sworn officers providing personal protection of witnesses, juries, defendants, victims, officials, heads of state and celebrities. Covers up close and personal protection, advance work, exercises on foot and in vehicles. Enhances homeland security for small and large departments.

1-Day Overview of Executive Protection.

Introduction and overview of the professional career of personal protection and explores the philosophy, methodology, mechanics, guidelines for protection of executives, officials, celebrities, politicians, religious and world leaders. This seminar is also an excellent refresher for those already in the field.

Join this growing profession of Personal Security from the school that wrote the book and continues to set the standards worldwide.

Dear ASIS Member:

With your support, ASIS International (ASIS) has grown steadily over the past decade and has evolved to meet the diverse needs of security management professionals worldwide. Like many other professional associations, ASIS must periodically review its operating costs and the anticipated future improvement of benefits, programs, and services. A thorough financial review undertaken by the ASIS Board of Directors has determined a need to implement a dues increase of $45—to $195 annually—effective January 1, 2014. Our dues were last raised in 2003.

Prior to making this decision, the Board thoroughly explored all alternatives to this action, but determined that this is necessary if ASIS is to continue to provide the scope, breadth, and quality of current services, while also building offerings for future generations in the profession. A few of our major membership-related developments since 2003 are:

- 38,000 members today vs. 33,000 in 2003
- 45 newly chartered chapters since 2003
- Four Regional Advisory Councils created—Europe, Middle East, Asia-Pacific, Latin America
- Eight new Standards published since the program began in 2008
- Eight new Guidelines published since 2003
- CSO Roundtable established to meet the needs of senior security professionals from the largest and most influential organizations in the world
- Two new certifications introduced in 2003—PCI and PSP
- Europe, Asia-Pacific, Middle East Bureaus opened
- Three global conferences added—New York, Asia-Pacific, Middle East
- Digital offering of Security Management magazine
- Increased offerings of alternative education delivery systems for members, i.e., webinars

As we move forward, the Board, along with the volunteer leadership and staff, plan to continue to build upon our strategic initiatives and expand the services we provide to the membership globally.

ASIS remains dedicated to the promotion of excellence and leadership in the global community of security management professionals. In line with this commitment, we appreciate your membership and your support.

Sincerely,

Geoff Craighead, CPP
President
ASIS International

Dean - Life Safety Sciences and Director of Brooks Regional Training Center at Chemeketa Community College

Hi Everyone,

I have recently accepted a position as Dean of Life Safety Sciences at Chemeketa Community College in Salem Oregon. I am looking for a full-time professor with a strong corrections background to fill a vacancy in our Criminal Justice Degree program. Minimum requirements are a Bachelor's degree with at least 10 years of experience. I would prefer someone with a Master's Degree but will consider a Bachelor's degree with a highly experienced/qualified candidate. If you know of anyone or you yourself are interested, please get into contact with me. This is a critical need and compensation will be commensurate with experience. This is a PERS position in the State of Oregon.

My email is rob.mccorkle@chemeketa.edu and my direct number is (503) 689-6033
